Hitler in Prague

—Through a window of Hradcany Castle in Prague, Adolf Hitler peers down at crowds as Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop broadcasts proclamation that declares the Czech part of broken Czechoslovakia belongs to greater Germany.

U.S. FLAYS 'LAWLESS' HITLER

WASHINGTON, March 17 (INS)—With the full approval of President Roosevelt, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles said today that the United States government considers Nazi Germany's annexation of Czechoslovakia as "wanton lawlessness."

Further, the acting secretary declared in a bitter arraignment of Chancellor Hitler and the German government, the United States regards the seizure of the central European democracy as "temporary."

Germany's "march to the east," Welles said, was a threat to "world peace and the very structure of modern civilization."

It was by far the sharpest rebuke ever administered by this government to Nazi Germany and there have been many rebukes, direct and indirect, since Hitler's rise to power.

Acting Secretary Welles permitted direct quotation of his remarks, and thus again emphasized the thoroughness of this country's condemnation of Germany's defiance of Czechoslovakia's national integrity and the crushing of a democratic people.

The statement declared:

"The government of the United States has on frequent occasions stated its conviction that only through

European Crisis in Brief

France and Britain today manifested their alarm over Hitler's latest coup in central Europe as the Nazi state clamped its hold on the bloodlessly conquered former Czecho-Slovak republic.

Britain in a slap at the Nazi ruler called home her Ambassador to Berlin, Sir Neville Henderson, to report on German's new eastward expansion.

The French cabinet approved a bill to give Premier Daladier virtual dictatorial decree powers to make France ready to fight at a moment's notice and strengthen ties with Rumania and Russia.

Hitler swept into Brunn and was "heiled" by crowds.

Nazi secret police in Prague and other conquered cities arrested many Jews and "undesirables" and seized Jewish stores while a wave of suicide swept over Czechoslovakia.

international support of a program of order based upon law can world peace be assured.

"This government, founded upon and dedicated to the principles of human liberty and of democracy, cannot refrain from making known this country's condemnation of the acts which have resulted in the temporary extinguishment of the liberties of a free and independent people, with whom, from the day when the republic of Czechoslovakia attained its independence, the people of the United States have maintained especially close and friendly relations.

"The position of the government of the United States has been made consistently clear.

"It has emphasized the need for respect for the sanctity of treaties and of the pledged word and for non-intervention by any nation in the domestic affairs of other nations.

"It has on repeated occasions expressed its condemnation of a policy of military aggression.

"It is manifest that acts of wanton lawlessness and

ARMY DAY PROCLAIMED

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)

President Roosevelt today proclaimed April 6 as Army Day, and ordered military units throughout the nation and possessions to assist civic bodies in "appropriate observance."

COMPARISON—Above map illustrates the comparative populations and areas of European nations today. In black is post-war Germany. Shaded area denotes successive "grabs" by Hitler which came under the list of Greater Germany. Danzig and Memel in the north are expected to be added to Nazi rule shortly.

BRITAIN RECALLS ENVOY AS REBUKE TO HITLER

LONDON, March 17 (INS)—In a thinly-disguised reproof to Hitler for his imperialistic expansion in Central Europe, the British government today ordered Sir Neville Henderson, its ambassador in Berlin, to return to London "to report" on situation.

Hitler 'Heiled' Back in Vienna

BERLIN, March 17 (AP)—Adolph Hitler rode into Vienna today, completing a triumphant 24-hour journey between the two once-prized capitals which have fallen to his bloodless conquest.

The Nazi Fuehrer reached flag-decked Vienna after a short halt at Brunn, where he reviewed German military detachments in his newly-won Moravian protectorate. Under heavy guard, Hitler left Prague late yesterday. Behind him Hitler left secret police engaged in a clean-up of "undesirable elements," arresting Czech leaders, social welfare groups and others in the proud old city which, until Tuesday, was the capital of Czecho-slovakia.

Dr. Emil Hacha, President of the republic, last night with "complete trust" in Hitler took the responsibility for placing "the destiny of the Czech nation and the Czech state in the hands of the Fuehrer of the German nation."

SEIZE JEWS' STORES
Under the Nazi anti-Semitic restrictions, Jewish-owned stores were being taken over by administrators pending the time when they could be sold to non-Jews.

In Berlin, meanwhile, Wilhelmstrasse circles said Hitler and his advisers were planning an entirely different kind of "protection" for Slovakia than they have established in the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia.

Hitler assumed protection over Slovakia yesterday but officials, while not giving any details, said there was a vital difference between the "protection" he granted. Continued on Page 22, Col. 1

The action taken by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was similar to that of President Roosevelt last November, when he ordered United States Ambassador Hugh Wilson back to Washington from Berlin as a measure of protest against Hitler's anti-Jewish measures.

There was no immediate indication as to the proposed duration of Henderson's absence from Berlin. The German government has indicated that it would consider a "protracted deliberate absence"

Jail, Suicides In Hitler Wake

PRAGUE, March 17 (AP)—Reports of arrests and suicides among anti-Nazi and Jews increased today as non-Jews began taking over administration of Jewish-owned stores in the former Czech republic.

The newspaper "Expres" reported 20 suicides among Jews, including Eugen Zucker, retired director of the Anglo bank; Rudolf Wahle, a retired judge, and Paul Donner, former director of the Czech radio system.

The former military camp at Mikovice, 25 miles from Prague, was turned into a concentration camp.

The Social Democrat party was to be dissolved during the day.

BAN ON JEWS

All Jews connected with film producing were ousted from their jobs and agitation started to get rid of Jewish distributors and owners of motion picture houses.

The newspaper "A-Zet" with a circulation of about 100,000, was suspended and its plant confiscated last night for publishing a picture of Hitler which the Nazis did.

ST. PATRICK

'Tis a Great Day Today!

GENERAL HOWE

HERE'S how South Boston looks today.

MODERN EIRE SAINT'S IDEAL

By AUSTEN LAKE

On the Northwest coast of Ireland there is a landmark of St. Patrick—the Croagh Patrick which raises its steep funnel 2500 feet above the blue waters of Clew Bay. It is the Holy Mount of Ireland, its Sinai, where legend says that in the beginning of Lent, A. D. 449, the Saint fasted 40 days and 40 nights while petitioning God to free his people. The mediaeval monks record that an angel returned to St. Patrick each night with promises from Heaven.

"And what else will be granted?" demanded the Saint on the 40th night.

"What else wouldst thou have?" asked the angel.

"That the Saxons be denied an abode in Ireland so long as I shall abide in Heaven," said St. Patrick.

"Now get thee gone!" said the angel in impatience.

"That will I not," answered the sturdy Saint, "until I am blessed and my petition granted."

The angel carried the message to Heaven and returned, saying, "The Lord saith, 'There hath not come, nor will there come from among my apostles, a man more admirable, were it not for thy hardness. What thou hast asked thou shalt have in its time.'"

PROPHET FULFILLED

The prophecy has been largely fulfilled and Ireland today is more the Ireland of St. Patrick than in the previous history—a day when the sea of Irish emotion, with its endless waves leaping in surface envious and contradictions, has become a tide of union.

Today March 17, the streets of all Eire—the quaint and crooked, dog's leg lanes of Galway Town, the humpbacked rise of Costume street in Athlone, St. Patrick street's angular elbow in Cork, and the O'Connell arteries of Limerick and Dublin are gay with greens. Windows of the great stores like Clegg's in Dublin and the tiny penny-shop like Callahan's in Tralee are trimmed with emerald garlands.

There is a fancy dress ball at the Gresham Hotel, near the Nelson Pillar, another at Jury's and still another at the Shelburne—young people's parties at which the girls wear frills and laces, handed down from their grand dames and the men are formal in velvet, knee breeches and ruffled stocks.

Today is the major Irish holiday and the great urban voice of Dublin will begin at daylight, a gradual crescendo of bicycle bells, motor horns, house hoaxes and the rumble of trains. For Dublin is abroad early and there is no restriction on noise—a musical pandemonium.

There will also be the identifying scent of the city—the haze of soft coal smoke which carries its faintly pungent odor like the personal perfumes associated with discriminating ladies or the sniff of old book bindings.

The gulls will be screaming above

Massed Thousands Cheer Big Evacuation Day Parade

Undaunted by the Senate's refusal to designate the day a county holiday, South Boston's patriots assembled today the greatest parade ever to wind through the streets for celebration of the British evacuation of Boston.

Twin demonstration of patriotism and protest, the parade sent 10,000 marchers tramping over the four-mile route which had been entirely cleared of snow and ice following the wild week-end storm. More than 200,000 persons headed for South Boston to witness the parade long before the starting hour of 2 p. m.

EVEN WEATHER GAY

Unlike many other March 17th observances, that of today was with a smiling sky overhead and dry pavements underneath and with a kiss of spring in the air.

Bunting and flags decorating the South Boston area whipped in the mild breeze in commemoration of that day, 163 years ago, when General Howe and his British horde discovered they had an important engagement out of town.

Under direction of Chief Marshal William J. Welch and his staff, headed by John S. Flaherty, the parade formed early along General William H. Devlin way at Dorchester avenue, with units swinging into line from side streets.

AND SO THE BRITISH WENT

By GEORGE W. CLARKE

If ghostly cannon echoed in last night's stillness it was because Washington's hosts were on the move again . . .

If whispers of consternation and distress sounded through the streets of Boston proper at dawn came slowly on it was because Sir William Howe and his brother, Richard, Lord Admiral of a wraithlike British fleet, had learned that they had been outwitted by the Yanks . . .

And if it seemed in the early morning mist that cannons stretched their necks from Dorchester Heights it was because memories live on of the first and one of the greatest victories—a bloodless victory—scored in the American War of Independence . . .

For on March 17th, 1776, Howe's British army, facing certain defeat, inevitable disaster, was loaded aboard the British fleet in Boston Harbor and sailed away never to return.

History calls it Evacuation Day . . . and so, if hands play and flags fly in South Boston today, it is, at the very least, a double celebration, for, and it is a well-known historical fact, the password the night the Continental Army occupied Dorchester Heights was "St. Patrick . . ."

ANOTHER BATTLE

And if the celebration has its repercussions in Charlestown, not to mention many other communities around and about, it may be because the victory of that day was traceable to another battle, the Battle of Bunker Hill—and everyone knows, of course, that the hill is in Charlestown.

Cambridge is in it, Roxbury—it's hard to name a place that hasn't just cause to celebrate.

Two weeks after the Bunker Hill battle in June, 1775, General George Washington, named commander-in-chief of the Continental Army, came up from Virginia to assume that command over the only considerable body of men then available, the army encamped at Cambridge.

He took command under a great elm tree there and started to fashion an army out of what material was available. It wasn't easy. Farmers aren't fighters unless there's a fight on hand, and again and again those enlisted in the army left to return to their homes, and, again and again,

Window Thieves Score Again

Store window thieves, who have plundered downtown shops of thousands of dollars worth of goods during the past three weeks, defied police again today and raided the display window of Stowell's jewelry firm in Winter street, seizing several valuable watches.

Although two officers were only a short distance away, stationed in the vicinity especially to guard against such crimes, a man smashed the plate glass window of the store and escaped with his loot.

The break was planned, down to the exact minute, in the same way the Stowell firm was looted one week ago today, police believed. At that time, the thieves stole 25 watches, valued at $635.

Estimates of today's robbery will believe the haul was smaller—made after an inventory. It was three or four watches, although one was valued at $125.

Police revealed that a dozen window and door breaks have been perpetrated by the same gang since the first of the month. The thieves' methods of operating and fingerprint markings were similar, police said.

Three breaks, on Washington street, Elm street in the North End and Cornhill, occurred Tuesday night. Early yesterday morning the same gang plundered a Massachusetts avenue, Back Bay, radio store of ten sets valued at a total of $180.

During the week-end of March 4 they robbed a Portland street, North End, concern of 74 radio sets worth $717.

According to Maurice W. Hendel, counsel for Mrs. O'Hara, she is now at Glickner Sanatorium at Colorado Springs, Col., where she went in January after obtaining a Nevada divorce from O'Hara.

Hendel said that she was recuperating from an operation, the expense of which O'Hara had agreed to pay, but that he had not kept the agreement.

William A. Needham, O'Hara's counsel, declined to comment.

Kidnap-Bandit Victims Slain

MILTON, Fla., March 17 (AP)—Kidnaped by a filling station robber, two men were found shot to death today 200 yards off a highway, tied together face to face with cotton rope.

Sheriff Allen said one of the victims had business cards reading "Clifford T. Mann, Montgomery, Ala." The other had no identification marks except a belt buckle with the initial "W" and a fountain pen bearing "C. D. W."

The two were abducted in Mann's motor car by a gunman who looted a Georgianna, Ala., filling station of $37. The pair had driven to the station for service.

The men had watches and a small amount of money in their pockets, but no billfolds.

POLICE ORDERED TO PROBE OFFICE OF COMPTROLLER

A State House scandal of major proportions loomed today as Governor Saltonstall revealed he had ordered Captain John F. Stokes, head of the state police detectives, to investigate alleged "irregularities" in the office of State Comptroller George E. Murphy.

The Governor said he had requested that a handwriting expert be assigned to check validity of "many" signatures of Murphy's name on money warrants and correspondence.

Questionable nature of "a considerable number" of these signatures was reported to the governor by a private firm of certified public accountants, he said.

He engaged these accountants to make a special audit of Comptroller Murphy's files and records, Gov. Saltonstall revealed.

QUOTES ACCOUNTANTS

He quoted the accountants' report in part as follows:

"During the course of our examination, it was suggested to us that there might be irregularities in signatures of the comptroller to correspondence and to warrants.

"We therefore examined a considerable number of original warrants for the purpose of ascertaining if the signatures thereon would appear irregular to the non-expert in the field of handwriting.

"We noticed many instances (of signatures) which appeared different from any one thereof which might be taken as standard.

TELL OF SIGNATURES

"Accordingly, we questioned the comptroller about the matter of the signatures and were informed that he, in his knowledge, there was but one instance in which his name had been affixed to a warrant or any other paper by other than himself and that in this instance he had permitted it to be done."

After receiving this report, Governor Saltonstall said he conferred with Patrick J. Moynihan, chairman of the state commission on administration and finance.

Comptroller Murphy's department is under Moynihan's authority.

"At Commissioner Moynihan's suggestion, I asked Captain John Stokes of the state police to make an investigation," the governor announced.

"I suggested that a handwriting expert be put on the case. Captain Stokes said his expert was not immediately available but would be assigned as soon as possible."

Signature of the state comptroller is required by law on all warrants for disbursement of state funds authorized by the governor and council.

About 25,000 such warrants are signed annually, calling for disbursements totaling well into the millions of dollars.

The governor's clear inference that Comptroller Murphy's name might have been forged to "a considerable number" of these warrants set the State House abuzz today.

Comptroller Murphy was appointed to his $6500 a year post for former Governor Ely in 1932.

Revere Night Club Head Fined

Because his Revere night club, "The Open Door," was allegedly "closed to cops" on his order, former City Councilor Joseph del Grosso of Revere, was fined $5 today for "obstructing police in performance of their duty."

He appealed and was held in $200 by Judge Paul J. MacDonald in Chelsea court.

The charge against del Grosso grew out of his alleged defiance of a night club "clean-up" drive ordered by the Revere's new mayor, Lawrence J. Gillis.

Police witnesses testified they were refused admittance to the "Open Door" when they attempted to make an inspection on February 10.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 17 (AP)—Knights of Columbus throughout Connecticut and the nation today mourned the death of their Supreme Chaplain, Rt. Rev. Monsignor John J. McGivney, who died suddenly in the rectory of St. Charles church of which he was pastor. He was 69.

Plans for honoring at his funeral services the spiritual director of the national organization were being furthered by K. of C. officials. Monsignor McGivney, who was made a domestic prelate by the late Pope Pius XI in 1932, succeeded his brother, the late Monsignor Patrick J. McGivney as pastor of St. Charles church here and as Supreme Chaplain of the Knights of Columbus in 1928. Another brother, the late Michael McGivney founded the order.

Runner-up in a field of 12 beauties selected earlier by balloting in 27 of the country's colleges and universities, was another motion picture actress, blonde Alice Faye.

"Oomph," most of the jurors agreed, constitutes a certain indefinable something that commands male interest. The Earl of Warwick, one of the 25, called it "a feminine desirability which can be observed with pleasure but cannot be discussed with respectability."

PIUS SETS FESTIVAL MAY 18

VATICAN CITY, March 17 (AP)—The Vatican announced today that Pope Pius XII had set May 18 for taking possession of the Cathedral of St. John Lateran, which is the pontiff's see as Bishop of Rome.

His Holiness also decided to celebrate mass in St. Peter's Basilica on Easter Sunday and afterward to bless the crowd in St. Peter's square from the balcony where he was crowned last Sunday.

In former days a new Pope's first visit to the Cathedral of St. John Lateran was a festive occasion.

VATICAN CITY, March 17 (AP)—Pope Pius XII adopted his papal coat of arms today.

The seal bears the traditional tiara and crossed keys under which is a dove bearing an olive branch, imposed on a background of sky, earth and water. The meaning is peace on land, sea and in the air.

A motto which the Pope's cardinal's seal bore—"Opus Justitiae Pax" means peace is the work of justice—was missing from the papal seal.

Fascists had held that this motto was the equivalent of Premier Mussolini's "peace through justice" formula.

DRACUT, March 17—Protesting removal of popular Athletic Coach Spencer F. Sullivan, 300 boy and girl students of Dracut high school joined a novel "sit-down" strike today.

They took possession of the school gymnasium and assembly hall and remained there, hour after hour, playing the piano and rattling the roof beams with songs and cheers.

Only 23 members of the student body refused to join the strike, it was reported.

Teachers were obliged to suspend classes.

Principal Rene Bernardis and Superintendent of Schools James C. Riley both appeared vainly to the strikers, asking them to return to their lessons.

O.K.'S USE OF GYM

When it was obvious the strike was "on" in earnest, Principal

Bernardis gave permission for continued use of the gymnasium, but urged the students to be "orderly."

Sullivan, the deposed coach, also addressed the strikers.

"You're here for an education," he told them. "That's more important than baseball or basketball or football."

"I appreciate your loyalty to me, but I want you to go back to your classes. I want you to go back now."

Cheers greeted the ex-coach's words, but his plea was ignored.

RACIAL ANGLE CHARGED

Sullivan's removal as general athletic coach was voted last night at a special meeting of the Dracut school committee.

No reason was given publicly for the action. It was openly charged today, however, that an "anti-Irish" bias in control of town affairs decreed that Sullivan must be a victim of axe-swinging in the name of "economy."

The deposed coach is a former Providence College football star and former line coach of Lowell high school's grid squad.

He came to Dracut high school three and a half years ago in dual capacity of mathematics teacher and general athletic coach.

His salary as a teacher is $1320. His pay as coach raised this to an annual total of $1753.

Worcester Man Takes Niece of Puerto Rico Governor as Bride

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, March 17 (AP)—Miss Katherine Winship, niece of Gov. Blanton Winship, and Lieut. Thomas Hogan Hayes of the 88th United States Infantry, were married today in San Augustine Church.

Chaplain Mariano Vassallo officiated and the bride was given away by Gov. Winship. Mrs. John E. Stanley was matron of honor and the maid of honor was Miss Pauline Wright Moore. Lieut. Hayes was attended by his father, Col. E. S. Hayes, retired, of Worcester, Mass. Fellow officers served as ushers and formed a sword archway through which the bridal party passed. Guests included Mrs. Thomas H. Hayes of Waterbury, Conn., the groom's grandmother; Mrs. Ida Coleman, of Macon, Ga.; and Mrs. Randolph Fort of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Counsel Sees Hope for New Carroll Trial

HELFAST, Me., March 17.—Former Attorney-General Clyde H. Chapman today expressed "high hopes" for passage of a measure which would permit Francis M. Carroll, former deputy sheriff serving a life term for murder of Dr. James Littlefield, to seek a new trial.

In a plea before a legislative hearing, Chapman, attorney for Carroll, urged that newly discovered evidence be allowed at any time in criminal cases and not merely before final judgment, as the Maine law now stands.

"It would be premature to reveal the new evidence now in my possession," Chapman told the Boston Evening American, "except that I regard it as very important. I have not given any hint of it to anybody."

"I cannot say how the legislature will react to my urgings for a new law, but I have high hope that it will be favorable."

"This is not a case involving my client alone. The change in the law that I ask is important to everybody. The law as it stands is unjust and unfair."

Chapman recently tried without success to have the legislature investigate the conviction of Carroll and Paul N. Dwyer, 19, for the slaying of Dr. Littlefield. Dwyer is also serving a life term.

The youth repudiated his confession in prison and accused Carroll, father of Barbara Carroll, Dwyer's former sweetheart.

Firemen Lose Fight for a Life

Despite efforts of firemen, a doctor and a relative, Mrs. Sarah Spinner, 64, died today in her home, 64 Corey road, Brighton, apparently victim of a heart attack.

Mrs. Spinner called her stepdaughter, Mrs. Collie Nathan, 42, when stricken. Mrs. Nathan called a doctor, then ran across the street and pulled a fire alarm.

Firemen worked with an inhalator for two hours until Dr. Irving Park pronounced the woman dead.

10 Harvard Students Rap 'Fascist' Poster

A sudden attack against "intolerance and bigotry" of alleged "Fascist" sympathizers at Harvard College broke today, under the directorship of 10 outstanding students at the college.

The attack was made in a letter to the Harvard Crimson, daily undergraduate publication, and was signed by the 10 students.

The letter took bitter exception to a placard that was posted in Harvard dormitories and lecture halls last Tuesday, but which was torn down so quickly that students remained unaware of its existence.

PROMINENT STUDENTS

Among it were Richard Sullivan, chairman of the Lowell House committee; Henry E. Russell, permanent class committeeman; Cleveland Amory, former president of the Crimson; John S. Stillman, president of the Harvard student union; and James Tobin, first marshal of Phi Beta Kappa.

Also Michael P. Grace, president of Harvard independence; Mason Fernald, student committeeman; Edward C. K. Road, president of the Lampon, undergraduate humorous publication; Theodore Hollisworth, Jr., student councillor; and Edmund L. Cherrin, president of Phillips Brooks House.

The placard read:

"In Memoriam to the late Spanish Reds. The request is made that all classes observe two minutes silence Friday, from 11:30 to 11:32 Saturday at 7:30 p. m. Joe Stalin will read mass at Memorial Hall. Please omit flowers. The pallbearers will be Felix Finkelberger, Ann Holum, Bald Squares, Kirtley Q. Kannon and Thomas Kannon.

"The solist will be Pearl Chowder. Official mourners: Daily Shriker, New Games, Communist Internationale, Dirty Deal, Students' Union, Quax Garner.

Socialist Leaguoritchiski. The flower girls, Pinky Chamberitaki, Sammy Stillmanski, Oh Oh Goldstein.

OGPU IN CHARGE

"Choir, the Muscovite Demoscrats, Ianville Dicks, Dot Thompson.

"A trap has been set for Father Conghlin and Martin Dies. If successful, execution will be immediately after mass. OGPU in charge."

"This incident was so objectionable," the letter to the Crimson said today, "we felt the student body should be given the opportunity to show its revulsion. The poster made a most vicious attack on Harvard professors. It was a poor exhibition of intolerance and bigotry characteristic of all Fascist literature.

"We urge the administration to take the proper action so that it cannot occur again."

Cambridge City Councilor Michael A. Sullivan, who has had his own difficulties with Harvard in the past—including the time a student kicked him neatly in the seat of the trousers—said he would ask the Cambridge city council to take action on the matter at its meeting Tuesday night.

TRAPPED, 2 DIE IN FIRE

ADDISON Me., March 17.—Trapped in their flaming home, Mrs. Abbie McDevitt, 69, and her husband, Frank, 72, were dead today despite the woman victim's frantic phone call for help.

BOLT, TACK PERILS 2 BABIES

Two children—one from Lowell, the other Taunton—were in Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary today awaiting operations to have foreign objects removed.

Two-year-old William Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rogers, Smith street, Lowell, stuffed a small bolt into each nostril Wednesday night. His mother removed one but was unable to remove the second. When his condition took a serious turn last night, he was taken to Boston infirmary.

Cornelius Tierney, Jr., four, swallowed a tack at his home in Taunton. The obstruction was located in his lung when he arrived at Morton Hospital there, and doctors ordered him taken to Boston.

March 17th Freedom Day for 3

Divorces to two South Boston women and a man were granted by a judge wearing a bright green tie in Suffolk probate court today.

Judge John V. Mahoney peered over a cravat of emerald hue and passed out the divorces without so much as a whispered protest.

Her husband tripped her as they walked through a dark alley and explained "that's one of the tricks I learned in the Navy," Mrs. Johanna M. Vergunst of O street, South Boston, testified.

TELLS DISH HURLING
He also vented his anger by slinging dishes at her, smashing the furniture and by lifting the cover off the radio cabinet and smashing the tubes, Mrs. Vergunst told the court.

She was granted an uncontested divorce from William Vergunst, a baker, custody of a daughter, Joanne, 8, and $6 weekly.

A divorce was granted Mrs. Florence H. Gubioso of East Sixth street, South Boston, on grounds of desertion. She was also awarded custody of her daughter, Mary, and $7 weekly.

HUSBAND GETS DECREE
The third, Leo Silvia of Dresser street, South Boston, obtained a divorce from Mrs. Rita Silvia on grounds of infidelity.

He testified that after he got a decree of separation in 1937 his wife married again in New Hampshire and told him she thought he had obtained a divorce decree.

Fire Perils Antiques In Downtown Store
Valuable pieces of antique furniture and old books were threatened by flames today when fire broke out in an antique and auctioneering shop at Bosworth place and Chapman place, downtown Boston. Of undetermined origin, the blaze started in the basement and worked its way to the first floor. District Chief John Watson estimated the loss at $2000.

the 1990s, the Chinese government has been making a concerted effort to improve the country's image abroad. One of the main ways it has done this is through the promotion of traditional Chinese culture. This has been done through a variety of means, including the establishment of cultural centers abroad, the hosting of international cultural festivals, and the production of cultural products for export. The Chinese government has also been actively promoting the idea of "soft power," which is the use of cultural and other non-coercive means to achieve one's goals. This has been done through a variety of means, including the establishment of the Confucius Institutes, the hosting of the Beijing Olympics, and the production of the TV series "The Legend of the Blue Sea." The Chinese government's efforts to promote traditional Chinese culture and soft power have been widely praised by the international community. However, some critics argue that these efforts are merely a way for the Chinese government to distract attention from its human rights record and its policies in the South China Sea. Despite these criticisms, the Chinese government's efforts to promote traditional Chinese culture and soft power have been a significant part of its foreign policy in the 1990s.

Lost

But Not For Long!

Fritz, the adventure pictured above, wandered away from home and first the other day to find himself in a bewildering world of honking blasons and unfriendly mongrels. But Fritz wasn't lost very long. His master called Liberty 4000 and placed an inexpensive "Lost and Found" ad in the AMERICAN, and before you could say "Dachshund" Fritz was on his way back to home, security, and regular meals. If you've lost something, the quickest, easiest and most efficient way to insure its return is to call Liberty 4000 and ask for Miss James.

U. S. Denounces Hitler's Grab Of Czechs as 'Lawlessness' of arbitrary force are threatening world peace and the very structure of modern civilization.

"The imperative need for observance of principles advocated by this government has been clearly demonstrated by the developments which have taken place in the past three days."

Welles emphasized that the United States acts in accordance with its own responsibility in opposing the "temporary extinguishment" of the "liberties of a free and independent people."

He said no other power had been consulted which indicated little sympathy with the action of Great Britain in this new display of "arbitrary force."

The statement on behalf of this country extended far beyond the rebuke administered to Germany during the outbreak of persecution of the Jews. "Lawlessness" is a term seldom applied by this government, but it was the core of Welles' remarks.

The acting secretary a slim diplomat who speaks in the most brittle language to be found in the state department—made his statement after his prolonged conference with President Roosevelt when he said, approved what he had to say.

Before Welles issued his statement, President Roosevelt had called for action on this country's neutrality laws at this session of Congress.

WANTS STRONG MEASURE

Mr. Roosevelt turned aside a rush of questions at his press conference on just what course the revision of neutrality legislation should take, but he significantly referred to his opening message to this Congress on January 6. In this message, he said:

"There are many methods short of war, but stronger and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor governments the aggregate results of our own people."

This was taken by observers as a continuation of the President's theme in his most famous Chicago speech which suggested an "economic blockade" to stem the tide of military expansion on the world by the dictator powers of Europe.

WANTS GUAM IMPROVED

Examining other phases of U. S. foreign policy, the President revealed two major points.

That there has been no change in this government's diplomatic relations in Spain—that, for the moment, the United States still recognizes the Loyalist government.

That he favors including provision for improvements on the Pacific Island of Guam—near Japan—in a rivers and harbors bill. The improvements were first requested by the Navy in an air base expansion bill, but the Guam program was defeated in the House. Under the President's plan, the Guam improvements would be made as a civil rather than a military project.

Mr. Roosevelt declined to support legislation from the action should take that referred to the opening message in Congress on January 6 in which he said there were methods short of war which could be employed to meet the threat of the dictator powers of Europe.

Welles repeatedly proposed in Congress some of them from administration sources. Senate Finance Committee chairman, present provisions for tightening of present restrictions on this government in regard to arms.

One proposal has been identified by Welles which would permit the government to deprive the aggressor in a war and to apply to business against that nation and not against its people.

F. D. FOILED HITLER ATTACK ON FRANCE

By ROBERT G. NIXON

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 17 (INS)—America's swift and gigantic rearmament in the air, land and sea, and in its far flung outposts, and President Roosevelt's bold decision to back Great Britain and France with war planes, munitions and raw materials, has thwarted a secret plan by Chancellor Hitler to deliver a knockout blow to France.

This was the assertion today by one of the best informed veterans of the nation's capital, a German expert, against Germany's war aims.

At the same time this assertion further advanced the opinion that it was knowledge of this secret plan and not alone the present attitude by the Reich of Czechoslovakia which led President Roosevelt to announce last morning that the United States would send war planes to France.

In the opinion of this expert, it was in a position to keep a close watch on the plans of European dictators, and the seizure of Czechoslovakia at this time was forced by unexpected circumstances.

HITLER'S HAND CALLED

Hitler, he said, fully intended to take over what was left of Czechoslovakia after the Munich dismemberment, but this was a matter that could wait and be taken care of in good time.

Instead, within the Czechoslovak state, chiefly engendered by the Slovak and Ruthenian minorities, and aided Germany had and Hitler move before he was ready to take over the rest of the country. The Munich pact, he said, was a mistake, and the Munich pact was a mistake, and the Munich pact was a mistake.

Hitler, he said, had been told that the Munich pact was a mistake, and the Munich pact was a mistake, and the Munich pact was a mistake.

Hitler, he said, had been told that the Munich pact was a mistake, and the Munich pact was a mistake, and the Munich pact was a mistake.

THROW IN BRUNN ACCLAIMS HITLER

At 1:30 p. m. a large number of people gathered in the courtyard of the German embassy in London to witness the arrival of the German ambassador, Herr von Helldorf, who was accompanied by his wife and two children. The ambassador was greeted by a large number of people, including the British ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, and the British foreign secretary, Lord Halifax. The ambassador then proceeded to the embassy, where he was met by the British ambassador and the British foreign secretary.

There was some doubt as to whether the ambassador would be received at the embassy, but the German ambassador was eventually received by the British ambassador and the British foreign secretary. Hitler Purge Jails 7000 In Prague as a more or less friendly move by Britain that could serve only to prejudice Anglo-German relations.

PRAGUE, March 17 (AP)—As the Hitler purge of an undesirable element gathered full force today it was said by qualified sources that the number taken into custody in Prague is somewhere around 7000.

A brief official announcement issued by the British foreign office said:

"Instructions are being sent to Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson to return to London at once to report."

The careful inclusion of the word "to report" indicated that British officials have no immediate intention of severing diplomatic relations with Germany.

It is traditional in time of crisis or stress to recall foreign envoys for consultation, but the example set by President Roosevelt in Ambassador Wilson's case last November has lent this diplomatic procedure a definite tinge of official proof.

The British Labor party rose in open rebellion against Prime Minister Chamberlain for his policy of appeasement as his government wavered with the nation in what was dealt with Hitler's sudden declaration of Czechoslovakia.

Always opposed to Chamberlain's attempts to pacify the dictator, the Labor party has back on their heels, the Laborites definitely decided they would refuse to pass.

FRENCH CABINET ASKS WAR POWER

PARIS, March 17 (INS).—Their regime battered by harsh criticism of their foreign policies, Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet explained the tangled Central European situation to their colleagues today at a meeting of the French cabinet.

While French parliamentarians raged over Germany's success in breaking up Czechoslovakia and establishing puppet states in Slovakia, Moravia and Bohemia, the cabinet approved a declaration of policy to be read this afternoon in the Chamber of Deputies which demands action on foreign affairs. The cabinet was divided upon the text of a bill to be presented to the Chamber today on foreign affairs to increase the strength of France and give the government "exceptional powers."

PLAN SAFETY MOVES

This bill, to be offered at the meeting of Bonnet, is believed to include provisions limiting the 48-hour work week law in munitions and similar factories.

It also was said to call for an augmentation in emergency of all factories and labor resources, and for an increase in credits.

Disturbances were expected to follow a 48-hour work week in armament factories, also in a majority of plants which supply raw and finished materials essential to the prosperity of the nation when he obtains the necessary parliamentary authority.

Also, the premier may demand plenary "political" powers enabling him to "take measures necessary for the safety of the nation."

Thus, according to talk in corridors of the Chamber of Deputies, may mean strong measures against Communist party.

MAY RECALL ENVOY

It was reported the cabinet decided not to permit, for the present, any ministerial trips from Paris. This decision was said to have forced cancellation of several contemplated journeys including a number of proposed short political trips by Bonnet.

Leon Meyer, a prominent radical socialist (moderate) deputy and former minister of marine, asked his party to propose in the Chamber that Edouard Herriot, a radical socialist leader and former premier, be sent on a tour of Soviet Russia and eastern Europe to report on the strength of the peace forces.

Meanwhile there were reports that Robert Coudurier, French ambassador to Germany, will be recalled from Berlin to report to his father.

American Boy Photographer Slain in Chust

BUCHAREST, March 17 (AP).—The United States legation received reports today that Peter Lisauk, 18-year-old American newspaperman, had been killed Tuesday trying to photograph fighting in Chust, capital of Carpatho-Ukraine.

Refugees from the region, which was Czechoslovakia's eastern outpost, told the legation Lisauk was killed during a battle between Czech gendarmes and Ukrainians before Hungarians annexed Carpatho-Ukraine.

Lisauk was employed by his father's film company, "Empire Film Company," 13 West 12nd street of New York city.

Envoy Defies Hitler

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP).

The president of the government is not empowered by the constitution to cede any part of Czechoslovak territory. The agreement signed in Berlin on March 15, therefore, is not valid.

"I took the oath to obey the laws of the Czechoslovak republic; an one has power to force me to act against the law."

The minister, Colonel Vladimir S. Horan, said he had informed the Prague foreign affairs ministry of his refusal to sign the agreement.

"According to the constitution of the Czechoslovak republic," Horan said, "any territorial changes of the state must be approved by the Czechoslovak National Assembly with a three-fifths majority of all its members."

BULLETINS

BERLIN, March 17 (INS).—Hungarian troops completing their occupation of Ruthenia, have occupied Liscov, near the Rumanian frontier, a dispatch from Budapest said today.

LONDON, March 17 (INS).—Nazi storm troops, late last night loaded 14 motor trucks in Prague with gold, reported to be worth $50,000,000, from the Czechoslovak National Bank and took it to Berlin, according to a Daily Telegraph message from Prague today.

Having died their hair in an effort to disguise. The police did not take it because of the protest against civil transport. The men were recognized as they left the plane and were shot.

One Czech was arrested by a storm troops in a hotel lobby after he was overheard to make a derogatory remark about Hitler.

Under the Nazi protectorate the Czechs are to be permitted to maintain their own laws insofar as they do not conflict with German law.

Czech radio stations and newspapers were under Nazi supervision. The Czechoslovak press bureau former official news agency now is a part of DNR the German agency. Czech papers today printed only DNR reports and comments from Berlin publications.

Foreign legations were closing down in the American legation said it had not yet received instructions.

The Life of Christ

CHAPTER NINETEEN

The Saviour instructs Nicodemus

By COLLIN CLINE

TO SAY in one's heart "There is a God" is not enough. Salvation requires that men publicly proclaim their belief in His existence.

SAID AS HE WAS LEAVING HIM TO NICODEMUS, an influential Pharisee, the Master said to his disciples: "The world is asleep."

Nicodemus had visited the Saviour in the darkness of night and had told Him: "We know that Thou art a teacher, one that has come from God: for no man can do these miracles that Thou doest, except he be with God."

Jesus replied that a person interested in saving his immortal soul could not be content with outwardly remaining faithful to his old customs and secretly worshipping the new.

"God so loved the world," He explained, "that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through Him might be saved."

Today's picture, drawn by an unknown artist many years ago, shows the Saviour talking to Nicodemus. It is one of the few portrayals of this important event.

TOMORROW, the story of Christ's holy life continues in the Boston Evening American. The illustration will be by the great painter, Beilheim.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY! There is a pause in the Lenten season as millions in many States and nations honor the memory of the Apostle of Ireland.

Fourteen centuries have come and gone since this noble Christian carried the message of his Saviour into a pagan land. Nations have risen and fallen. Hundreds of generations have lived and died.

YET HIS NAME LIVES ON IN UNFADED GLORY, NOT ONLY IN IRELAND BUT THROUGHOUT EUROPE AND AMERICA.

This is understandable for Saint Patrick represented TRUTH and RIGHT, which, like God Himself, know neither time nor space and endure forever.

Irish and ecclesiastic history abounds with accounts of the holy man's works. He healed the sick. He converted the multitudes. He planted the seeds of culture that took root, thrived and flowered in a fertile garden.

And by no means the least of his vast accomplishments is the fact that he brought to the worship of his Maker a whole nation WITHOUT THE SHEDDING OF A SINGLE DROP OF BLOOD.

Truly, he was the Ambassador of Peace, the Emissary of Goodwill, the bright spark of Christianity in a blinding world of darkness.

Not without significance and purpose has the land he chose as his own kept alive the flame of faith through all the centuries, cherishing and guarding it even when all Europe, ravaged by intolerance and war, stood to lose it!

The troubled, hate-torn world of today needs Saint Patrick, needs especially his peace and faith.

The shamrocks, green ribbons and tinted carnations thousands pin on their lapels today are proper and appropriate. But they are hardly enough. At best, they are only SYMBOLS.

Really to revere this glorious champion of brotherly love we must in our hearts resolve to pattern our own lives according to his illustrious example.

FRIDAY, MARCH 17, 1939

Human Side of News

by EDWIN C. HILL

THE DAY of the good St. Patrick "and a gentleman he was and born of decent people" swarms round again, bringing to this reporter many vivid memories of St. Patrick's Days.

He can remember most of one St. Patrick's Day and St. Patrick's procession up Fifth Avenue that St. Patrick's Day will never forget. That was the St. Patrick's Day parade of March 17, 1899, just 40 years ago today. That parade was never finished because the marchers broke out of line to see the show.

MR. JAY GOULD, celebrated Wall Street operator, died at the window of his late brownstone mansion and looked on with interest. Directly across the avenue from the Gould Mansion was the eight-story Hotel Windsor, where had for years committed suicide years before.

Suddenly Mr. Jay Gould's cook saw smoke curling up from the Hotel Windsor's roof. It turned out later that John Fox, a waiter, had seen a gas light, a cigarette and saw the still burning match into a face curtain. It blazed up like so much powder and John Fox's wife shot of "Fire" and even above the blazing bands and the thumping drums outside.

I don't suppose New York ever saw a more dramatic scene. Here were 50,000 people jammed into that Fifth Avenue block and the sole doors all with excitement and dread. The fire engines couldn't break through that crowd for precious minutes. The firemen couldn't get their hose lines connected. And by the time the engines got to pumping, flames were bursting from every window.

Thousands saw firemen climbing scaling ladders, and bringing down panic-stricken women and children so frightened that they fought their rescuers.

They saw men and women leaping from the upper story windows and they could hear the awful thud of the bodies striking the pavement.

Screams mingled with cheers as the onlookers watched men and women leap to their deaths and as they saw the gallant firemen snatching people from the roaring furnace.

PRIESTS came and knelt in the fierce heat and asked for mercy of God. Tears streamed down the bearded cheeks of men who hadn't shed a tear since childhood. Women sobbed and screamed.

Among the rescued were the sister of the President of the United States and her brother's wife, and, too, a young woman who was later to make a great name for herself and be tragically on a bridge over the River Seine. Her name was Isadora Duncan.

THE GREAT SNOWSTORM

It brought out the playfulness in a lot of folks, and even if it was a little bit of a nuisance, it was a lot of fun. The snow was so deep that it was like a giant's foot.

Some of the boys and girls were out there, and they were having a lot of fun. They were building snow forts and snow castles, and they were having a lot of fun.

Will War Come?

by HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, March 17. Akron, Ohio, properly calls itself "The Rubber Capital of the World." The occasion for my recent visit to that city was a convention of employees of the greatest company. There are 2000 of them. They came from the ends of the earth from rubber plantations in the Far East, from factories and selling establishments in many countries than ever were in the League of Nations. They represented the globe.

They said that, while the possibility of war is recognized and the nations are getting ready for it, there is almost no sentiment for war among the people. Neither in France, nor in Italy, and least of all in Germany. On the contrary, they reported an awful fear of it and a great resistance to any talk of it.

THAT WAS a very interesting point. It might be that the reason for less war talk there is that the press of those countries is less free. Skipping that for a moment, it has always been dangerous for a leader and especially for one

Frances plans to combine her dancing talent with band leading by leading some of the members with tap beats, which should be different and cute. The band will be ready next week and its name will be along the general idea of "Frances Grant and Her Hollywood Starlets." But Frances is hoping someone will think of a better name than that before any decision is made.

SIGNS OF SPRING: A busy girl was skipping about by her mother's side in the midst of the crowded shopping district. Suddenly she looked up at her mother and remarked brightly:

who relies on force for his leadership—to take a country into war against its will. Sometimes a reluctant country can be bullied, hoodwinked into it, as we were in the World War. Sometimes, although reluctant at first, a country can be war-torn into a frenzy by what happens after the first shot—as were some of the States on both sides in our Civil War.

But generally speaking, it is a military axiom that, if there is no "will to war" among the people and the relative strength of the enemy is so nearly equal, that there can be no hope of a short and triumphant peace, it is fatal for an ambitious government to provoke a war.

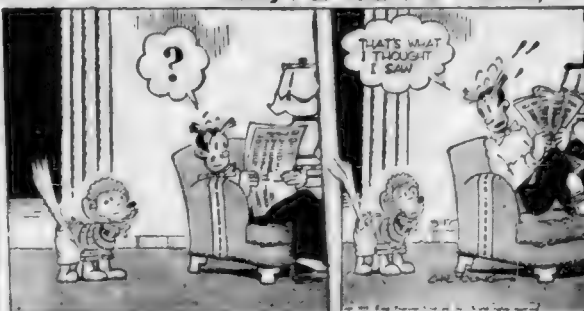

OF COURSE all this is guesswork. The present situation is exactly like a poker game. We don't know what he in the other fellow's hand. A military showdown might be called at any time and the fat would be instantly in the fire. We can't afford to bet on anything but adequate defense.

MATCH MODEL HOME TO BRIDE'S COLORING

Special to Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, March 17—More colorful and freer in design than ever before, House Beautiful's sixth annual bride's house opens to the public Monday at the Savoy-Plaza Hotel.

This year the bride's house is made up of five separate and distinct houses, 34 rooms in all.

safe conversions of the past are out perhaps because of the world's fairest, targeting dramatic present. These brilliant pools are seen prominently among their own, through the glass house.

Based in the decorating scheme is that a door is made to flow from room to room fusing them into an unbroken whole. The doorway is not a barrier, but a part of the flow of the house. The way for the play walls of the room beyond, or the line of extension to the plane above, and finds its counterpart in the carpet of the living room.

Among the many decorative innovations the most daring is that of using color schemes of five of the room's backgrounds for five distinct furniture types. Plonke chose a rich, earthy, and subtle color.

Here's Martha Lee's Newest Menu for That Delightful Spring Dinner

FROM MARTHA LEE'S FRIDAY BROADCAST—WMEX—11:30 A. M.

"Top of the mornin' to you" and may your St. Patrick's Day celebration be a merry one. And while we're feeling so bright and gay this morning we'll plan the Sunday dinner.

This is the day we eat our heart's content and our paper for the week and the food. But this time we'll make that spring cannot be a mistake. We'll like putting a menu of looking when springing.

Here's our menu:

INSURANCE MEN who write policies on jewelry had a few apprehensive moments last evening . . . for practically every tiara, bracelet and family heirloom . . . diamond or other wise . . . in Boston, was taken out of the safe deposit vaults to sparkle in the lights of Huntington avenue and Opera place as their wearers hurried from limousines into the side door of the opera house last evening . . .

The most brilliant and elaborate except of any social season, the Metropolitan Opera Company's annual engagement here at the Boston Opera House, got off to a very gay start with Lawrence Tibbett playing the part of the kind, lovable Falstaff in Verdi's opera of that name . . .

Brilliant Display of Gems

THE DISPLAY of fine and power in the Golden Horseshoe would have made even an Indian prince envious . . . Costly items were the exquisite diamonds and emerald necklaces and earrings worn by Mrs. Richard Karp, Treasurer of Mills, with her pair of rare white faïence made with a long train . . . Mrs. Edward Jackson Holmes, who attended with Mr. Holmes, curator of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, wore a topaz tiara and long pearl earrings, and the scarf of her ruffled chiffon gown was trimmed with real chinchilla . . .

A large cluster of diamonds containing the letter "H" was the only jewelry worn by Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird Jr., with her lovely emerald sash gown, and she carried a bunch of violets in her hand . . . Mrs. Oliver Wolcott, who was a guest in the Donald McKay Frost box, wore her real chinchilla cape with a gown of platinum gray satin . . . and Mrs. John Cunningham's ropes of pearls were beautifully set off by a simple white satin gown worn with beaded slippers and a corsage of pearl camellias . . .

With an eye peeled for unusual effects we made a note of Mrs. John D. Gannett's beautiful gown of pale gray moire with a deep band of chartreuse inserted in the full long skirt . . . she wore a cluster of little chartreuse flowers in her hair . . .

Long Colored Gloves Are Popular

BOTH MRS. WILLIAM ENDICOTT and Mrs. B. Devereux Barker, Jr., had a chance to see themselves as others see them . . . their black gowns with bands of painted roses forming shoulder straps and a halter neckline in back were identical . . . As usual at the opera, long white kid gloves were very much in evidence . . . but some fashionable women wore colored ones . . . Mrs. Charles Kinkadee's purple gown was worn with matching gloves and tiny velvet bows in her hair . . . Mrs. Charles Shea's long white kid gloves were handsomely stitched with gold kid and Mrs. Francis Sears wore long beige gloves and an amber necklace with her gown of pale than amber chiffon . . .

Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett heard her husband's performance from the Golden Horseshoe, after stopping to remind Anita Davis Chase about the after-the-opera party the Tibbetts were giving in their hotel suite . . . Her striking gown was half crimson and half royal blue and her dark hair was combed neatly into several rows of small curls held in place with a couple of tiny diamond clips . . . Exquisite pale pink camellias adorned Mrs. Chase's black velvet gown which had tiny bands of brilliants outlining the neckline and marching up and down the back . . .

Other notes of interest . . . Mrs. F. William Marlow's purple tipped freesia bouquet . . . Mary Elizabeth Sears' pretty color combination of buttercup yellow and jade green . . . Mrs. L. Gould Newell in gold from tip to toe . . . a tiara of tiny gold leaves topping a gown of lustrous gold satin . . . Ellen Moseley's cluster of vari-colored jewels sparkling at her throat above a strapless gown of pale blue taffeta . . . Bubbles Sorwell clutching violets . . .

Catholic Folk Plan Congress

Plans for the annual Congress of Catholic Women, of the archdiocese of Boston, were made at a recent meeting of the executive board of the League of Catholic Women, at the League headquarters, 11 Arlington street.

Mrs. Norbert Hardy of Belmont was named chairman of the conference to be held April 25 and 26 at the Hotel Somerset.

Another feature of the meeting was the formation of a Speakers Bureau under direction of Mrs. Charles Connelley of West Roxbury. Interesting League activities in Mrs. Vincent L. Greene, president, assisted by Mrs. Francis T. Swattery, chairman of legislation.

Brouillard-Tenet Battle Tonight

St. Patrick's Day In Gay Paree

LOU BROUILLARD, former world's welterweight and middleweight champion, will collide with Edward Tenet of France in a ten-round bout in Paris tonight.

Johnny Buckley will direct Brouillard. Buckley writes from Paris as follows:

"Brouillard and Tenet are set for their good old St. Patrick's Day battle in gay Paree. It may turn out to be a good day for a Boston Irishman and a French Canadian in a real French country."

"The fight will draw real well from all accounts. Brouillard is in good condition. This letter is written nine days away from the fight, and Lou now scales 163 pounds."

"I was down to see George Gandy at the European office of Universal pictures where George is the big boss. He looks fine and asked me to say hello to you and to his friends in Boston. George says he would like to send his seven-year-old son to Boston to get him toughened up battling with some of the Conway youngsters."

"I talked with our old friend Norman Hurst on the telephone to London. I am trying to make a match between Brouillard and Jack McVay for London. Norman tells me such a bout would draw a lot of money in London."

"I have also been in communication with Adolph Heuser who is in Berlin. Heuser would like to get a bout with Brouillard in Berlin, and he says such a contest would draw $20,000 in American money."

"I HAVE ALSO talked with Henry DeGlane, Dan K. Robert, Yvon Robert. Koloff tells me Robert is the best card in France. Robert recently defeated DeGlane, and the match drew 100,000 francs which is about $80,000 in American money."

"I am afraid there is going to be some trouble between Italy and France from the talk I hear in Paris."

"I have heard that Johnny Sklor, my young heavyweight, has been operated upon for appendicitis. This youngster has great promise, and I think that in time he will make a name for himself in the ring."

"I was in to see Georges Carpentier at his cocktail bar. He is doing a fine business, and looks well."

"Andre Routs, former world's featherweight champion, told me he is going to New York with his wife to see the World's Fair, and that he may take three or four fighters over with him, and give them to old Jacobo, his old manager."

"I was talking with Armand Vincent of Montreal. He recently put on a successful ski show in London, and plans a similar affair for Paris."

"The six-day bike race is underway in Paris, and it draws big money in England. From what I hear boxing is going big in England, and McVay wouldn't have much trouble defeating most of the opponents he would be called upon to meet."

"I am glad to hear Honey Melody is still winning. I know he will beat Lou Ambers when they meet."

"I would like to be parading up Broadway in South Boston on St. Patrick's Day, but will have to be satisfied with a Brouillard victory in Paris."

Basketball Game at Roxbury Y. M. H. A.

SAM SMITH was in with the news that the Norton Club of Worcester will play basketball with the Roxbury Y. M. H. A. five on Saturday night.

"C. C. N. Y. originally scheduled to play at the Boston Y. M. H. A. on Saturday night will be substituted by the Norton Club of Worcester," said Sam. "The reason for the change is that the C. C. N. Y. season ended on March 14, and the Y. M. H. A. could not get official assurance that the regular C. C. N. Y. line-up would positively appear. Rather than deprive its patrons and suffer possible disappointment, it was deemed wiser to make a change and to substitute a reputable club that would make the Y. M. H. A. speedsters know that they were in a contest."

"The Norton Club has had a glorious season, and will be remembered for their hair-raising game against the Y. M. H. A. earlier this season when they nipped the Y. M. H. A. out by a basket after an overtime period. Louis Pick the sensational long shot and the Norton Club have always been one of the best crowd pleasers in New England semi-pro basketball circles."

"It is doubtful if ever a Boston Y. M. H. A. basketball team turned in more brilliant performances than have the Hebrew boys the past few weeks. The work of Brenner, Hookie Hyde, Rice and Shiff has been nothing short of sensational. Certainly from a spectator's point of view this has been the best season ever at the Boston Y. M. H. A."

TORONTO BETTER CUP BET THAN BRUINS, SAYS GRIMES

By BILL GRIMES

Although they are not up to the usual Smythe standard, the Toronto Maple Leafs are a better bet to reach the Stanley Cup series than the Bruins.

The Maple Leafs are the third rating club in the N. H. L. They are not up to the usual Smythe standard, but they are a better bet to reach the Stanley Cup series than the Bruins.

However, they have been showing to better advantage of late and could easily defeat the Bruins for the Stanley Cup in the latter part of the season.

The Americans will be the first to appear in the Stanley Cup series.

Marvin Westenberg Revealed as Shadow

By JACK CONWAY

Gus Sonnenberg proved they can come back when he regained the world's heavyweight wrestling championship by unmasking "The Shadow," Marvin Westenberg of Spokane, Washington before 8000 fans at a Paul Bowser show at the Garden.

It is seldom that a new champion is crowned with a tremendous ovation as the one that was crowned the former champion.

UNTOLD STORIES OF THE RING BY JACK CONWAY

When the society girl from Park Avenue celebrated her twenty-first birthday, she received 21 American beauties. There was a card with the flowers, and on it was the name of Ernie Schaaf.

It was a card with the name of Ernie Schaaf, the boxer who had been killed in the ring. The card was given to her by a friend of her father's, a man who had been a friend of Ernie's. The card was given to her by a friend of her father's, a man who had been a friend of Ernie's. The card was given to her by a friend of her father's, a man who had been a friend of Ernie's.

Schaaf had fled. He had fled from the ring. He had fled from the ring. He had fled from the ring. He had fled from the ring. He had fled from the ring. He had fled from the ring. He had fled from the ring. He had fled from the ring. He had fled from the ring. He had fled from the ring.

They'll Do It Every Time. Hatlo. The attack of flu suffered by Schaaf earlier in the year, may have left a hidden weakness. There was the Beer bout in Chicago. All these causes probably contributed to the collapse of the "Golden Boy."

PRIMO'S GREAT POWER. When Primo fought Jim Malone, the boxer, Primo's power was evident. He was a great boxer. He was a great boxer. He was a great boxer. He was a great boxer. He was a great boxer. He was a great boxer. He was a great boxer. He was a great boxer. He was a great boxer. He was a great boxer.

Schaaf and Carnera both looked as if they were in perfect physical condition when they stepped to the center of the ring in Madison Square Garden on the night of Feb. 13, 1933.

Carnera was moving forward as the time, and the punch struck Primo's jaw. The timing was perfect, and the punch scored at the time when it had the most force behind it.

Schaaf's arms dropped, and he started to slump to the canvas. The attack of flu suffered by Schaaf earlier in the year, may have left a hidden weakness. There was the Beer bout in Chicago. All these causes probably contributed to the collapse of the "Golden Boy."

I could see the look of death in Ernie's face even before his body reached the canvas. "I jumped into the ring and rushed to his assistance."

It was the roughest fight ever perpetrated on the public of New York, one prominent writer wrote from the ringside. While the crowd fought to see the fight, the doctors were busy with the fight.

CARNER'S BROKEN-HEARTED. The doctors never did agree as to just what caused Ernie's death. The blow received in the Carnera bout were, of course, contributing causes. The attack of flu suffered by Schaaf earlier in the year, may have left a hidden weakness. There was the Beer bout in Chicago. All these causes probably contributed to the collapse of the "Golden Boy."

The body of the young heavyweight was returned to the home of his parents in Sheltonville. There were tributes and floral offerings from all parts of the country. The giant Carnera, broken-hearted, went flowers and his personal words of sympathy to Ernie's parents.

Gen. Phelan. "It is unfair to ask any man to meet a giant like Carnera." Schaaf had beaten Carnera decisively in 1931. At one point in the bout he had the giant on the floor. Schaaf didn't agree with Phelan. He thought he could beat Carnera, and the title match was finally arranged for New York for June, 1933.

In Carnera's Boston Evening American Jack Conway tells why Schaaf was beaten by Carnera. The attack of flu suffered by Schaaf earlier in the year, may have left a hidden weakness. There was the Beer bout in Chicago. All these causes probably contributed to the collapse of the "Golden Boy."

GEHRIG WORRIES BOSS JOE

By JOE CASHMAN

GEORGE M. GEHRIG, the star of the Boston Red Sox, is worried about his future in the team. He is concerned about his performance and the possibility of being traded or released. His manager, Joe Judge, is also worried about Gehrig's future.

Cambridge Fan Hot Sox Booster

The word battle between Bees and Red Sox fans is still raging. Here's a letter from a Cambridge fan which boosts the Red Sox. The letter follows:

"Boy oh boy, where do you get such stupid letters as the one that says that I'm in favor of the Bees. I'm considered an ardent Red Sox fan but honestly after the way this Sox enthusiasm blinded me I feel like a novice."

Here's a fan that actually would have the Sox holding up the rest of the league if all his friends came to the season.

He forgets to realize that baseball is still a game of percentages. Such established stars as Fox, Green, Cronin, Younkers, and others, will be there to stay up there fighting.

And where in the league can you get a more promising looking second baseman than Doerr? His fielding left nothing to be desired and with a full year's experience, he should be sure to win better than last year which will bring him close to the top.

And what he does in that pitching, I feel sure there isn't a pitcher in the league that is going to touch Jack Wilson this year.

Last year Wilson tried to put much on his pitch and he knocked himself off balance three out of five times.

Last year's experience will certainly help Jim Bagby and Emerson Dickson. Ostrander has at last found himself in 1938.

Anker is good for 15 games with the Sox power behind him. If Wade comes through, it will be worth it.

Wade will have at last found himself in 1938. That of itself will earn his salary.

Robinson proved he isn't too much of an if after what he did in the first game. He is a good fielder and a fine hitter.

Sox this Williams. Any kid that I like he did last year may be off in last company. But Williams can afford to bat .280 and still be carried for any player with all his natural ability and to be off.

Now show me with those kind of players how the Sox can help themselves better than the Athletics, St. Louis, Washington, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and New York.

Thanks for listening. MIKE GILLER

Pittsfield, Salem Join Entry Parade

By WALTER KILEY

Out-of-town bowlers are coming to the Huntington Club in droves, all of them intent on lifting the several "open" and amateur titles involved in the fourth annual Boston Evening American-Daily Record grand candlepin championships.

Here's an entry from the Palace Bowling Alleys of Clinton street, Woonsocket, R. I., and containing the names of 11 prominent women players.

The girls who will bowl singles, doubles and in teams, are Christine Brown, Pauline Brown and Mrs. Anna Connell of Blackstone, Massachusetts, and from Woonsocket, Mrs. Nora Cournoyer, Misses Anne Shunney, Katherine Shunney, Estelle Cloutier, Rose Bibeau, Loretta Laferte, Cecile Berry and Blanche O'Coin.

Here's another from Jimmy Innes, dynamic go-getter of Pittsfield, who sends along a group of male "open" bowlers who should if they live up to past performances, make the old welkin ring merrily.

The Pittsfield team looks to be a mighty fast one, including as it does Daury Higgins, Hilard, Regier and Shultz, all top-notchers who have been annual tourney visitors at the Huntington Club. Then together with Dennison the outfit will test their skill in the doubles as well.

HYGRADE TEAM IN

Mary Lukinchook of Salem files the team entry of the Hygrade-Sylvania Corporation, Mary Towle, Helen Kostyla, Ellen Slatery, Mary Lukinchook and Antoinette Gasperoni; and with the mixed doubles pairs, Eleanor McCarthy, Harold Cameron, Louise Gagne and Alice Wallace, Helen Flynn and Arthur Fraser; Lillian Molson and Paul Cameron.

The Varsity Girls of Lawrence are coming into the tourney in a solid front, rolling the amateur singles, doubles and teams. Their names are due along in a day or so. H. Brotherton of Auburn shoals along the team entry of the "Anglo-Persians," representing the M. J. Whitall Associates, Ltd., of Worcester.

Sam Firestone, captain of the H. Margolin and Company team, makers of pocketbooks, files for his strong Pittsburgh men's team.

The Notre Dame Athletic Association of North Cambridge is to depend on two teams, one a man's, another a woman's. The gals are to be Arlene Feeney, Lillian Nadeau, Sybil Story, Annette Cardin and Margaret Ryan, with Muriel Seiffert as alternate. The fellows are John Ivers, Paul Nadeau, Charles Flanagan, Ernest Simard and William Gail, with Joseph Boudreau as alternate.

ANOTHER WARNING

And there are ever so many more entries which space forbids us naming at this time.

Once again it is imperative that we warn of the short space of days remaining before the entry lists close for good and all.

The entry deadline is next Tuesday midnight, with only those entries postmarked previous to that hour eligible for acceptance.

In order that we be certain of the greatest tourney in all candlepin history, and that we have two weeks of real bowling fun as well as championship entertainment, let's see all our New England bowling fans flood us with entries during the next few days.

The tourney directors don't mind being swamped. The more the merrier is our motto. So let's see them, men and women, college boys and high school boys and girls.

All can be accommodated, what with our 66 grand alleys all in the one long row. Enter TODAY.

Nick Pastore

Subdues Suggs

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 17 (AP)—Nick Pastore, 147, New York, centered his attack on his opponent's mid-section for six rounds and pounded out an easy victory over Oscar Suggs, 144, New Bedford, Mass., Negro.

AN ARMPFUL for any little girl. Pretty Miss Anne Imlor of Woburn believes in becoming acquainted with the candlepins as she practices at the Kenmore Recreation Alleys.

Armstrong Stops Feldman in First

ST. LOUIS, March 17 (AP)—Dynamite Henry Armstrong, his lightweight and welterweight crowns at stake, kept both and his reputation intact by blasting Brooklyn Lew Feldman in two minutes and 12 seconds of the first round.

Feldman, a "cute" fighter—that is, a fancy boxer—danced out at the bell to meet Armstrong, whose slight arms belie the power that lies in them.

The champion, moving almost stiff-legged, did not bother to wait. Driving in, he shot sharp jabs to feel out his opponent and then, at the first opportunity, smashed a powerful right smack against the side of Feldman's chin. The Brooklyn fighter flew back on his haunches.

At the count of nine, Feldman managed to stand up, but that was the signal for a flurry of punches which he found himself helpless to defend. The fight ended with Feldman dazed and in a semi-sitting position against the ropes.

Perry Falls Fifth Time Before Budge

BALTIMORE, March 17 (AP)—Donald Budge rolled along to his fifth consecutive professional tennis victory over Fred Perry of Great Britain, 6-2, 6-2, before a scant 500 fans.

Perry was outmatched by Budge's skill and court generalship. He tried desperately to prolong the rallies so the Californian would fall into error, but his efforts failed.

Weber Adds Bag Punch to Redlegs

TAMPA, Fla., March 17 (AP)—Outsiders think the Cincinnati Reds have just about sewed up the 1939 National League pennant with their purchase of Bill Weber, fleet and sure-handed third-baseman from the Philadelphia Athletics.

REMEMBER those strokes! They belong to Gertrude Ederle, the first American girl to swim the English channel. Miss Ederle has been sick for several years but daily swims have returned her to normal health.

Providence Reds Trip Syracuse

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 17 (INS)—Beating off last minute rush plays, the Providence Reds paced by Art Gironx who accounted for two goals, defeated the Syracuse Stars, 4-3, in a fast International-American Hockey League game played before one of the season's smallest crowds at the auditorium.

So do the Reds. They were a happy bunch around their hotel last night, and even Manager Bill McKeechie admitted he was "very pleased" with the deal. He should be, because Weber set the Cincinnati treasury back $25,000 and that for a player no club in the American League needed at the waiver price. They're all well fixed at that spot.

With Weber plugging the hole at third the Reds will be a tough outfit to beat out. They finished only six games out of first place last year. Though his batting fell off in the latter stages of the 1938 race, Weber still is a grand fielder after six years in the big time, and that's all the Reds want. He still has much of the speed that made him the American League's leading base-stealer three times within four years.

McKeechie wouldn't say for sure, but it's more than likely Weber will lead off the batting order. He drew 25 walks last season, and if he can do that with his new club he will get knocked in with a parcel of runs.

"Frankly, it will be okay with us if he doesn't hit over .250," said a club official last night. "Though, of course, we won't complain if he wants to do better than that."

WORRY OVER

The deal solves McKeechie's last big worry. Now he can quit trying to make a third-sacker out of Lonnie Frey and send him back to scrap it out at second base with Ed Joast, the fine-looking kid from Kansas City. Lewis Riggs will be traded or sent to the minors, for McKeechie plans to carry two first basemen, two second basemen and Nolan Richardson as understudy to Bill Myers as shortstop and general utility hand.

From what has been seen of the Reds in the last 10 days, it appears that they're ready. The Giants, Cubs and Pirates have a sound a line-up right down the line. Certainly none of them has anything like the potential pitching of Lefty Grissom held the Yankees to one dinky single for five innings the other day to guarantee he is ready. His ball is singing as of yore. Paul Derringer, who had to carry the load last year, with some spectacular assistance from Johnny Vander Meer and Bucky Walters, gazed rapturously at Grissom's pitching and said: "My, my, it looks like we might go places."

GREAT STAFF

The club, furthermore, is coming up with more great looking young pitchers than McKeechie knows what to do with. They're all over the place, one day holding Brooklyn hitless and the next stopping the Yankees cold. Gene Thompson, for instance, hopped into camp from Columbia, S. C., a class "B" team, with a big chew of tobacco in his mouth, and it looks at the moment like he might pitch starting ball for the Reds.

Another thing that arch the Reds in their magnificent confidence in themselves is they had it even before Weber was added to the fold, and now they fairly reek with it. Harry Craft, the team's center fielder has been doing a remarkable job of fielding in exhibition games, and Ival Goodman, its home run hero, is punishing the ball. Yes, all things considered, look for the batteries in the opening game of the 1939 series to be a couple of southpaws named Gomez and Grissom.

HOGAN SEEKING MANAGER BERTH

Few Somerville baseball adherents allow St. Patrick's Day to roll by without reviewing the story of Frank "Shanty" Hogan and his great love for his late mother's corned beef and cabbage.

Referred to as the character who ate his way out of big league baseball the 230-pound gentleman, always a resident of the City of Seven Hills and certainly one of the best all-around athletes ever to attend Somerville High, played for the old Boston Braves, New York Giants, Cincinnati Reds and Washington Senators.

Even now Frank is actively associated with the baseball spot. Last year he was regular backstop of the San Diego club of the Coast League, and has his choice of returning there again this season or making himself a free agent. In a St. Patrick's eve interview at his walnut street home, Hogan, looking big and heavy, but appearing in far better physical condition than two years ago, told your copy, the tale of his eating his way out of baseball was exaggerated.

Said the likeable catcher, with a genuine Irish twinkle in his eyes: "You see, I'm no different than a great many other healthy people. I love to eat, and I don't hesitate to help myself to some food when my stomach feels as if it were empty. The only trouble is, I can't eat a bite without putting on weight. However, that doesn't mean I'm being greedy."

OTHERS ATE A MUNCH

"Now as for eating myself out of the big leagues, that, of course, is greatly exaggerated. Sure, I ate plenty when playing in the big time. But don't forget this—there were others, like Bill Terry and Mel Ott, who ate as much, and more."

"However, I was the fellow who had to suffer. Follows like Terry and Ott could eat all day and never gain an ounce. On the other hand, a single piece of bread would add a pound to my already large frame."

"That story about loving my mother's corned beef and cabbage is true, too. But here again I had to suffer. Others could eat the same meal and wouldn't put on any weight. Still, I couldn't get up from the table without adding three to five pounds. And that weight, my friend, wouldn't wear off. It was on to stay."

When your scribe asked why he didn't keep away from foods that increased his weight, he came back quickly with:

"That's the sad part of the story, I couldn't eat a thing that wouldn't add weight to my body. Even grapefruit juice and lemon juice would add a pound or two in my weight."

Frank explained how he tried all kinds of exercise and still couldn't lose weight.

"Even the famous New York trainer, Artie McGovern, couldn't better my condition," he remarked.

As for the future, Hogan said he had hopes of getting a minor league manager's job before long. Such an assignment, he went on, would be "just what the doctor ordered."

VARIED CAREER

Briefly, here is the colorful baseball career of Hogan: 1923—Graduated from Somerville High after three years of brilliant athletic accomplishment. He and the Boston Bees Danny MacFadden were members of the All-Scholastic nine in 1924 and 1925. Immediately following his graduation, he signed with the old Boston Braves 1926—As Braves' property, was sent to the Lynn team of the old New England League.

1927—Played with Braves. 1928—Traded to New York Giants in a deal which brought Rogers Hornsby to Boston.

1929—32—Played with Giants and batted over .300. Made Babe Ruth's all-time in 1930. Traded to Braves when Bill Terry took over manager's job.

1933-35—With Braves. Released outright. 1

BILL'S SPORT-O-GRIMES

The Bruins will take a light workout today at the Garden . . . Manager Art Ross believes that his players are in fine condition and do not require any more strenuous practise sessions . . . The Americans wound up their regular campaign on the short end of a wide open 11 to 5 game with Rangers . . .

They finished fourth, which gives Toronto the choice of ice for the first and third games of their series . . . Bill Stewart, Jr., son of the National League umpire and former Black Hawk manager, is getting ready for a trip to Florida . . .

Young Bill was injured while playing hockey for Lawrence Academy about a month ago and Bill, Sr., felt that a couple of weeks of sunshine would prime him for the baseball season . . .

Wes Ferrell isn't hard to get along with today, after hitting that homer yesterday in St. Pete, which gave the Yanks a victory over the Cincinnati Reds . . . Bill McKeechie believes that he has a cure for Bill Werber . . . If Connie Mack didn't know the answer to cure Werber, it looks like the "Deacon" will have his trouble . . .

Gus Sonnenberg regained his world's championship wrestling crown last night by defeating "The Shadow" . . . He waited eight years for his chance . . . Gabby Hartnett and Dizzy Dean turned actors last night and they weren't too tough, particularly the Cubs' manager . . . Win Green writes that he hasn't been called upon to do as much work on the Red Sox this spring as a year ago . . . When Joe Cronin got rid of Ben Chapman and Johnny Marcum he cut down Win's labors almost to a breeze . . . However, I understand from players who've been on clubs with him that Jake Wade is a rubbing table lizard . . .

Eddie Collins is getting such a thrill out of Western estate that he hasn't felt the "yee" to go to Sarasota . . . Accompanied by his father and four brothers, Jim Kinsaleberg, the Oregon State sophomore gridiron star was on Rudy Vallee's program last night . . . Looks like the Montreal hockey fans will demand that Jules Dugal is retained as manager of Les Canadiens . . .

The silent Jules did a great job getting the Frenchmen into the playoffs . . . He received a $3000 "cut" at the start of the season . . . Red Kelle is down in Sebring, Fla., huddling with Pres. Ed Barrows over his 1939 Yankee contract . . . The Penacook boy wants $18,900 . . . He's refused $16,000 . . . Coach Frank Leahy hopes to have his Eagles outdoor by the middle of next week . . . There'll be a football coaches' school at B. C. this summer . . .

Riley Back With Denner

Merry Mike Kaplan of Dorchester makes another start at the Arena one week from tonight, March 24, when he fights Cocoa Kid, Hartford, Conn., in the ten-round feature bout of a Goodwin A. C. show.

Not only that but Valenti came through with the announcement of another attractive bout, an eight round semifinal bringing together Abe Denner of the West End classy 126-pounder who narrowly missed winning the N. E. crown in this division last month, and Martin Riley of Fall River who actually "stole" the last Goodwin show.

Hurwitz Five In Court Tilt

The League directors of the Boston Amateur Basketball Championships will meet Thursday morning to select and approve the entries in the 11th annual City of Boston amateur basketball playoffs.

These league directors represent the major basketball programs in Boston: Nathan Hurwitz, Boys Club of Boston, chairman; William M. Mullen, Boston Park Department; Morris Goldberg, school center; Robert Laveaga, Boston Y. M. C. A.; Norman Ludlow, churches; Santo Marino, settlements; Samuel O. Smith, Y. M. H. A.; Jacob Burnes, West End House, and Harry Taplin, Burroughs Newsboys Foundation.

As some of these leagues have not as yet finished their tournaments to determine the winning team to represent them in the city championships, they will submit applications of all the teams which will have a possibility of qualifying.

By Wednesday, March 22, when the first games start, there will be eight teams entered in class A, and eight teams in class B for players 18 years or under, representing all the organized amateur basketball played in Boston.

It was announced last night that Nate Hurwitz has entered his Boys Club varsity, the team which won the Crowley Memorial award for class A competition last year. With Sam Smith's Jewels already entered and the NYMA of the Norfolk House playing this Saturday for the right to represent the Park Department, there is bound to be some real basketball played when these top notch teams meet.

Tom Casey Whips Manuel Cortez

PORTLAND, Me., March 17 (AP).—Tom, youngest of the Irish brothers Casey, took two of three falls from Manuel Cortez, 179, Mexico, in the feature bout of a wrestling show. Casey weighed 185.

Other results: King Kong Frankenstein, 184, New York, threw Chick Layden, 180, Alabama; Max Wilson, 178, Salt Lake City, Utah, tossed Frankie Hall, 180, Montreal, P. Q.; Steve Bartie, 185, Old Orchard Beach, drew with Hymie Olsen, 189, Minneapolis, Minn.

La Breagh!—Sure, and it's a great day as these South Boston lads gather early for the fanfare and trumpets of St. Patrick's Day parade. More than 200,000 others were on hand to cheer as 10,000 marchers swung into line.

Tragedy—Two-year-old Harold Holt, Jr., shown in arms of plane stewardess, Alice Dorsey, was pictured as he reached Newark, N. J., for treatment of an incurable tumor. He is given only two weeks to live. STORY ON PAGE 4

Marriage?—Rumors grew stronger in Hollywood today that Bette Davis, Newton girl who rose to film heights, will wed George Brent, screen actor, shown with her, as soon as she gets a final divorce decree from Harmon Nelson. Brent and Bette have been seen together often.
